

The best module for me was e-Literate as I learnt about digital ethics as well as the advantages and disadvantages of Internet usage. I am made aware of ethics in a digital world and I am more careful about how I use the Internet now.

Throughout the programme, students will learn about things they think are right but in actual fact are illegal. Besides digital ethics, the IC CITIZEN programme also teaches students about things they SHOULD know as an Internet user.

I found e-Enterprise to be the most valuable module to me. I found it quite worrying that credit cards could be cloned just by using a $500 machine.

I also learnt about the various ways to protect myself when doing online transactions.

From the IC CITIZEN programme, students can further understand how to use all kinds of digital resources such as the computer, handphone and credit card. It is important for them to avoid from becoming a victim or predator in the world of the Internet.

UPM Lecturer
TOT, 18 - 20 March & 25-27 March 2011

The Training-of-Trainers (TOT) has given me many guidelines to conduct the IC CITIZEN training such as how to manage a class discussion, how to share knowledge with my students through activities, and so on.

Testimonials

I feel that IC CITIZEN Certification will bring an impact when the students apply for jobs. This certification gives them value and is a bonus in any CV.

This programme should not only be carried out in universities, but expand to the whole of Malaysia too.

Dr. Fatimah binti Sidi

UPM Lecturer
TOT, 18 - 20 March & 25-27 March 2011

e-Accountability taught me to be responsible about everything I retrieve or upload to/from the Internet. I also acquired a larger view on ethical and non-ethical activities regarding digital facilities.

The TOT provides trainers with essential resources to be used to educate students in the IC CITIZEN programme. All of the slides/modules/training facilitates the trainer a lot. We have a clear guideline that will enable us to achieve the main objective of the programme.

Julia binti Juremi

UPM Lecturer
TOT, 18 - 20 March & 25-27 March 2011

Through this IC CITIZEN Certification programme, students know what they can and cannot do. They are also taught about the issues and risks when using technology in a digital world.

Dr. Mohd Taufik bin Abdullah

UPM Lecturer
TOT, 18 - 20 March & 25-27 March 2011

One of the advantages of the IC CITIZEN Certification programme is that the students can apply what they've learnt in their daily usage of the Internet.

I think students should go through this programme as it increases their knowledge regarding the use of information found in the Internet among other things.
